MR. CHURCHILL AT DOWNING ST.

MEETING OF WAR CABINET

MR. CHURCHILL, looking bronzed after his Atlantic conference with President Roosevelt, arrived in London yesterday morning and was given a rousing welcome at the railway station. He was met by Mrs. Churchill, Mr. John G. Winant, the American Ambassador; members of the Cabinet and heads of the Services.

Soon afterwards he was back at 10 Downing street, where he presided at a meeting of the War Cabinet. Subsequently he was received in audience by the King at Buckingham Palace, and lunched with His Majesty, to whom he gave a personal letter from Mr. Roosevelt in reply to the King's letter; and saw, at the Ministry of Information, the film of his visit to the President.

PREMIER'S FIRST TASK

Mr. Churchill's first task at the War Cabinet meeting was to give a detailed account of his conversations with President Roosevelt, writes the Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent. One of the immediate tasks of the Cabinet is to select Ministers and personnel to represent Great Britain in the Three-Power Conference with Russian and United States representatives in Moscow.

There is little at the moment to confirm the suggestions that Mr. Anthony Eden will lead the British delegation, and Lord Beaverbrook is a more likely choice. Mr. Averill Harriman is spoken of as the head of the United States mission.

When the House of Commons reassembles, the Premier will give a detailed account of his meeting with President Roosevelt in the course of his first review, after the recess, of the progress of the war.

On Sunday next, at 9 p.m., in the Home Forces and Overseas Services of the B.B.C., Mr. Churchill will speak of his meeting with President Roosevelt.

PROMISE TO ICELAND

"TO KEEP THE WAR AWAY"

REYKJAVIK, Tuesday.

"We came here to keep the war away from Iceland," said Mr. Churchill when he visited Reykjavik on his way home from the meeting with President Roosevelt. "We will seek to trouble your own life as little as possible, and guarantee, together with the United States, that after the war your culture in the past will be linked with a free future."

Mr. Churchill was accompanied by F. D. Roosevelt, jun., and the British members of the party who had been present at the Atlantic meeting. He met the Icelandic Regent, M. Sevin Bjornsson, and had half-an-hour's talk with him, and with other members of the Government.

Mr. Churchill and his party, accompanied by the British Minister, Mr. Howard Smith, then went to the outskirts of Reykjavik, where he reviewed the troops.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN

NO BARTER PACT

The following authoritative statement was issued in London last night: "The rumours of negotiations for a barter trade agreement between Great Britain and Japan seem to have arisen out of the communication to the Yokohama Specie Bank of information as to the banking machinery which they would be permitted to use in connection with any movements of goods which might exceptionally be licensed in the future. The position is that, in order to ensure that the effect of the freezing order will be fully maintained, frozen funds will not be released to finance exports to Japan. Arrangements are, however, being made to secure that if in any particular case it is decided to licence imports, payment for such licensed imports will be made to a clearing account, the balance on which will be available only to pay for licensed exports."

A hundred and seventeen Britons and Americans, living in Harbin, have decided to leave Manchukuo because of the Japanese freezing order, according to a Tientsin despatch.

JAPAN AND U.S.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, said to-day that the conversation of Mr. Joseph Grew, United States Ambassador, with Admiral Toyoda, the Japanese Foreign Minister, in Tokyo yesterday, went beyond questions of permitting American citizens to leave Japan. He declined to give details.—(Associated Press.)

NO WAR EXPORTS

BATAVIA, Tuesday.—Tokyo reports suggesting that the resumption of normal trade relations with the Dutch East Indies is impending are emphatically denied here. It is stated that exports which would materially assist the Japanese war economy are not in the Dutch interest, and will certainly not take place.—(Reuter.)

BRITONS HIT IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Tuesday. — American and British residents in Hankow are suffering severe restrictions at the hands of the Japanese and Chinese authorities, the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post states. Business, so far as they are concerned, has been brought completely to a standstill. It is impossible to move a small package across the street without a Japanese permit.—(Reuter.)

DOCK FIRE DEATH ROLL SEVEN

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Seven persons are, so far, known to have lost their lives, while 55 have been injured and taken to hospital, as a result of the fire which gutted a wharf and the freighter Panuco at Brooklyn yesterday. In addition, about 40 persons are missing, including a number of longshoremen who were working in the hold of the Panuco. Some of the latter may have escaped and failed to report. The District Attorney states that the total number of deaths may never be known.

Damage is estimated at £375,000. The dock company say that there are no indications of sabotage.—(Reuter.)

According to the Associated Press, the police tended to blame a carelessly discarded cigarette as the cause of the outbreak.

COMMUNITY MEALS

DUBLIN PLANS NOW READY

Special Powers For Corporation

SPECIAL "IRISH TIMES" NEWS.

SPECIAL powers are to be conferred at once on the Dublin Corporation, to enable it, should the need arise, to supplement the work already being done by the various welfare centres and other institutions in the preparation of community meals.

The same powers will be vested in the City Managers of the County Boroughs of Limerick, Cork and Waterford, and also in any other bodies throughout the country which the Government may deem fit. They will be conferred by an Order under the Emergency Powers Act (1939).

The plan of action, which has already been fully worked out by the Government, is designed to be put into operation should fuel become so scarce as to render cooking in the ordinary home impossible. It is based on figures supplied by 33 Relieving Officers of the Dublin Board of Assistance in their recent census of accommodation in Dublin City. On this basis the Government has surveyed the entire position, and its aim is to be ready immediately, if required, to supply meals en masse in all districts.

EXISTING CENTRES

Full use will be made of the cooking capacity of hotels, institutions and existing food centres, and where this is found insufficient provision will be made for the setting up of field kitchens.

It was learned in Dublin yesterday that the Government has also made plans to work through the various city managers to utilise the resources of big food-canning firms throughout the country. These firms, with large cooking equipment, may also help out community feeding activities in their own areas. Their canned goods will be available as instantaneous hot meals at food centres. It is emphasised that, as plans are already made, the actual starting of the work could be undertaken at a moment's notice.

The Government has been in consultation with various city managers regarding the position in county boroughs. It is understood that the likelihood of the fuel shortage affecting country districts is not seriously considered, and the communal scheme will apply only to the large centres of population.

Available transport can deal with 500 tons of fuel a day, which is only one-fifth of Dublin's requirements. If community kitchens are set up everywhere, an effort will be made to conserve supplies of fuel locally. Any coal which may in the future arrive in Dublin will be kept for the metropolitan kitchens: turf won in country districts will not be sent elsewhere, unless there is a surplus in that particular district. In all cases, the community kitchen will have a prior claim to any fuel available, even if this leaves cold the hearths of private householders.

BOARD'S SURVEY

The Dublin Board of Assistance census of accommodation was taken some months ago, in connection with schemes for temporarily putting-up bomb refugees. 180 buildings were listed which could accommodate hundreds of persons each. Cinemas, schools and institutions figured on the list, and details of those which had cooking equipment are now in the hands of the Government.

In the Drumcondra area St. Patrick's National School was said to be ready to put up 800; the Church Avenue National School 150, and accommodation was also available in the National Schools, Home Farm road; the Drumcondra Grand Cinema, All Hallows College and St. Patrick's Training College. Both of the latter have large-scale cooking arrangements. This scheme, of course, envisaged no more than the temporary housing of refugees, but valuable figures have resulted from its research. Various city institutions are also said to be ready to co-operate.

Mr. P. J. Condon, Clerk to the Dublin Board of Assistance, stated yesterday that the Technical School in Sean McDermott street had already worked out a plan of its own for mass feeding in an emergency. "Our scheme," said Mr. Condon, "had the advantage of linking up the work of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, the Red Cross and the A.R.P. We were trying to localise food supplies everywhere, and we actually had a food dump at the South Dublin Union. Our findings were later handed over to the Ministry of Defence, which now acts as co-ordinating authority over the work of the three bodies which I have named."

BIG OFFENSIVE OVER FRANCE

FIGHTERS DESTROYED AND SHIPPING HIT

A BRITISH official statement last night said:—"Twelve enemy fighters were destroyed and many vessels hit during offensive operations to-day."

The Germans claim to have destroyed twelve British aircraft.

An Air communiqué early this morning said:—

"Royal Air Force fighters and bombers carried out extensive operations over the Channel and enemy occupied territory yesterday (Tuesday). During the morning an offensive sweep was made over Northern France by many squadrons of fighters.

"In the afternoon our fighters attacked enemy coastal shipping in the harbour at Ostend. Many vessels were hit and one was left sinking.

"The railway yards at Hazelbrouck were attacked later in the day by Blenheim aircraft of the Bomber Command, accompanied by a strong fighter escort, and many bombs were seen to burst on the target.

"Other Blenheims attacked enemy shipping off the Dutch coast.

"Our fighters destroyed twelve enemy fighters during the day.

"Our losses in these operations were three bombers and twelve fighters. The pilots of three of the fighters are known to be safe."

FIRES AT COLOGNE AND DUISBURG

An Air Ministry communiqué yesterdays said:—

"Cologne and Duisburg were again attacked by aircraft of the Bomber Command on Monday night. The weather was fine, and a great number of heavy bombs were seen to burst in both towns. Many large fires were left blazing.

"Another force effectively bombed the docks at Dunkirk.

"Eight of our aircraft are missing.

"Fighter Command aircraft on offensive patrol attacked enemy airfields in occupied territory during the night."

MONDAY NIGHT'S RAIDS ON BRITAIN

Yesterday's British Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security communiqué stated:—

"Enemy operations on Monday night were on a small scale, and were almost entirely confined to areas on the east coast of England and Scotland.

"Bombs were dropped at a few points. Some damage was done at a place in North-East Scotland and at two places in North-East England, where some casualties were caused. These include a small number of people killed."

AIR FIGHT OFF MALTA

An official communiqué from Malta yesterday stated:—"Our fighters were successful in intercepting enemy aircraft which approached Malta this morning. Two enemy 'planes were shot down by one fighter pilot. One of the raiders was shot down in flames over Sicily."

German bombers last night (Monday) attacked "port installations and utility services in the Gulf of Suez with success," says the German News Agency. Hits are also stated to have been scored on a large oil depôt, causing a number of fires.—(Reuter.)

U.S. PRESIDENT'S PLANS

WAR THROUGH 1943 IF NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, Monday.

IF necessary, the war would continue through 1943, President Roosevelt said at his Press conference to-day. Britain and the United States would make a survey of their needs and production through that year. This was one of the subjects discussed at his luncheon meeting to-day with Lord Beaverbrook, the President said.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he told Lord Beaverbrook he had asked the Army and Navy about three weeks ago to make a survey of actual production, needs and deliveries through 1943, and he would be glad if Britain did the same. Probably something would have to be done also, he added, about certain Chinese and Russian needs.

Replying to a question, he said that the war would continue through 1943 if necessary

MORE PUNCH

President Roosevelt thought his conference with Mr. Churchill would result in "more punch in helping the democracies."

The President was asked—"Did the British Prime Minister seem confident Britain could win without our help?"

Mr. Roosevelt said that he did not think that kind of question was "useful."

Discussing the arrangements which preceded his meeting with Mr. Churchill, the President said that from the American end the whole idea was to assure the security and safety of Mr. Churchill and his staff. It was later found that the principal anxiety of the British party was the safety of the President and those accompanying him. Even now, he said, the time and place of the meeting could not be divulged, and perhaps could not be until the war was over.—(Reuter.)

IRISH LABOUR IN BRITAIN

DRASTIC HOME OFFICE ORDER

The British Home Office has instituted new regulations for controlling Irish labour and passenger traffic to Britain.

All Irish citizens except professional men and agricultural workers coming into the United Kingdom from Eire after August 8, 1941, must enter forthwith into the employment specified on their visa. They must not change this employment without permission of the Ministry of Labour.

They must register at the nearest police station and supply a photograph, report address changes to the police, not stay longer than six months unless permission is given by the Chief Constable of the district.

Agricultural workers will be restricted to a three months' stay as before, but they must register.

The new regulation reads:—"If any person coming from Ireland and not ordinarily resident here before July 24, 1941, so conducts himself in Great Britain as to render it expedient in the national interest that he should leave the country, the Secretary of State may order his detention pending his return to Ireland."

The Australian Federal Cabinet yesterday decided to increase certain rates of pay and allowances in the fighting services. The amounts are not yet decided.—(Reuter.)

R.A.F. ATTACK ON CONVOY

DESTRUCTIVE RAIDS IN LIBYA

REPORTS from the Royal Air Force Middle East Headquarters tell of the sinking of a 6,000-ton merchantman and of serious damage to other shipping in the course of an attack on a convoy in the Mediterranean.

Several fires and explosions have been caused by bombing raids on the harbours of Benghazi and Tripoli.

The official communiqué is as follows:—

"Mediterranean.—Swordfish aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm carried out a highly successful attack on an enemy convoy, consisting of five large merchant vessels and a tanker, escorted by six destroyers, in the Central Mediterranean, during the night of August 17-18. One vessel of 6,000 tons was hit by a torpedo, and sank after two hours. The tanker was also hit by a torpedo, and a violent explosion followed. Aircraft, which shadowed the remainder of the convoy, reported later that the tanker was still on fire and had stopped. Scenes of considerable confusion were taking place, anti-aircraft guns being fired in all directions, without any definite target. A second merchantman was then torpedoed, and reconnaissance on the following day showed that it had been beached at Lampedusa Island. The ship was there attacked by Blenheims of the Royal Air Force, and a direct hit with a heavy bomb set it on fire, with volumes of black smoke pouring from it.

"Libya.—Heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force raided Benghazi and Tripoli during the night of August 17-18. At Benghazi the harbour and shipping were attacked. Bombs were observed to burst on the bases of the Juliana, Cathedral and Central Moles and on railway sidings. An explosion and several fires resulted. At Tripoli the harbour was bombed. Hits on the Spanish Mole and the port caused a number of explosions.

"Egypt.—An attempt by a large force of Messerschmitt 109's and Messerschmitt 110's to attack shipping off the Egyptian coast yesterday was foiled by Tomahawk aircraft of the Royal Air Force, which gave combat to the Messerschmitt 109's, and compelled the Messerschmitt 110's to drop their bombs some miles from the target.

"Abyssinia.—In the Wolchefit, Debarech and Gondar areas of Abyssinia aircraft of the Royal Air Force and South African Air Force have been co-operating in machine-gunning and bombing enemy positions. Direct hits were scored on huts and buildings and the Fascist headquarters was destroyed. A number of fires was started.

"Malta.—Operating off Malta, a Hurricane aircraft intercepted and shot down a Caproni seaplane.

"From all these operations two of our aircraft are missing."

BRITISH SUBMARINE PRESUMED LOST

A British Admiralty communiqué last night states:—The Board of Admiralty regrets to announce that H.M. submarine Cachalot (Lieut. H. R. B. Newton, D.S.C., R.N.) is overdue, and must be considered lost.

"Axis" broadcasts seem to indicate that the entire company of H.M.S. Cachalot has been rescued and are prisoners of war. Next-of-kin have now been informed.

The Cachalot, completed in August, 1938, was one of the Porpoise class of submarine minelayers. She was built in Scott's yards at Greenock, and her surface displacement was 1,520 tons. She carried one 4-inch gun and two machine-guns, and had six torpedo tubes. Her normal complement was 55, according to "Jane's Fighting Ships."

MARRIAGE FIXED FOR TO-DAY

CORPORAL'S SUICIDE ON RAILWAY LINE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

THE CURRAGH, Tuesday.

The body of Corporal Christopher Stone (24), a native of Waterford City, was discovered to-day on the railway near Kyle Bridge, which is just outside Kildare town. The driver of the 8.23 a.m. train observed the remains and stopped.

At the inquest evidence was given that Corporal Stone had been in the best of health and spirits on the previous night, and was to have been married to-morrow. He was wearing the uniform of a second lieutenant and a great coat.

A military witness stated that the head was completely severed from the body.

An officer of the unit in which Corporal Stone served said that he joined the Army in January, 1935, and that his attestation papers showed he was married. He was a clerk in the clothing store.

A verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

GERMANS TALK OF BRITISH LANDING

"TO HELP MURMANSK RUSSIANS"

Paris radio said last night:—"There is little news from the extreme north except for rumours of an early landing of a British Expeditionary Force at Murmansk.

"The mission of this force would be to help the three Soviet divisions in that sector.

"Following the occupation of the Murmansk railway by the German-Finnish troops the Red units are cut off in the Kola Peninsula."—(Reuter.)

"NO ALLIANCE WITH BRITAIN"

SENATOR DENIES U.S. WAR AIMS

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON Tuesday.

IN a stormy debate, in the U.S. Senate to-day, over the Churchill-Roosevelt understanding, Senator Johnson (Republican) said that the Anglo-American statement of aims constituted an offensive and defensive alliance between Britain and the United States.

The debate started when Senator Barkley (Democrat) denied that the possibility of an American expeditionary force being sent to help Britain invade Europe had been "discussed, intimated or even hinted at" during President Roosevelt's conference with Congressional leaders. Senator Barkley said that, as far as he knew, the United States made no commitments during the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

Senator Johnson took issue with this statement, and said that it was plain that the sixth point of the agreement involved a commitment that might take the United States into the war, because it created an offensive and defensive alliance.

ENGLISH VIEWS

Senator Clark asserted that the British Press appeared to believe that definite commitments had been made on the part of the United States "for the almost immediate entry of the United States into the war." In ringing voice he declared: "If any commitments were made upon a British battleship in the zone of war, then the President of the United States exceeded his constitutional authority. I think it should be made known at this time to the entire world that any action of the President or anyone else pledging the United States to participate in the war was not an action of the United States Government."

ACT OF WAR

Senator Clark also asked Senator Barkley if it would have been an "act of war" if H.M.S. Prince of Wales had been bombed while President Roosevelt and his two sons, the Army Chief of Staff, the Chief of Naval Operations and other United States officials were on board, or did Senator Barkley think "the President deliberately put himself in a position where an act of war might have been committed?"

Senator Barkley replied that if an "enemy" 'plane or warship had bombed or destroyed the Prince of Wales while the President was on board, or the Augusta alongside, it "might have created a situation that would have excited the American people and caused some difficulty with a foreign Power." He added, that the President was willing to undergo the risk if it was a risk, of boarding a belligerent warship in order to give the world the joint declaration that grew out of the conference.

TWO PREMIERS

"WE ARE UP AGAINST IT"

—Smuts

"THANK GOD FOR RUSSIA"

—Menzies

PRETORIA, Tuesday.—"On the whole I bring back a happy impression both of our men and the general situation, but always with this strong feeling—we are up against it this time," declared General Smuts on his return from Egypt. The Germans in Libya were a much more formidable foe than the Italians had been, but he was optimistic.

General Smuts expressed the view that if the Germans had failed to invade Britain a year ago, when Britain was weak, there was little likelihood of a successful attack on Britain now. The chances were that the Germans would strike in the Mediterranean basin—the only area in which they could fight, he said. "The Germans have enormous resources to fling against us."—Reuter.

SYDNEY, Tuesday.—Mr. Menzies, the Premier, told business men to-day that Government control of profits, prices, interest rates, and private enterprise generally was just and equitable, and would continue after the war. Warmly praising the resistance put up by Russia, he said: "Thank God for what Russia has done, is doing, and is going to do." Mr. Menzies warned against complacency and slackening of effort. The prime trusteeship of the future world lay with the British Empire, he declared.—Reuter.

BRITISH FOOD NEWS

Britain has bought the whole of the Icelandic catch of white fish—that is, all sea fish except herrings—by an agreement until the end of June next year, Lord Woolton, the Food Minister, stated yesterday.

Mr. W. P. Spens, K.C., M.P., stated that about 12,000 acres of onions had been planted, as against 1,000 before the war. Everyone should get about 2lb. per head at a controlled price of 5d. per lb.

Britain would have two or three times more carrots than for many years.

Considerable quantities of American bacon, prepared for the American market, have arrived in Britain.

The mail train from the Carlisle Pier to Westland row was held up for an hour between Dun Laoghaire and Blackrock last night. The delay was due to engine trouble, caused by the poor quality of the coal.

NEW ARMIES TO DEFEND DNIEPER RIVER

GERMANS CLAIM THE WESTERN UKRAINE

FRESH Soviet armies from Kharkov and the Crimea are standing on the strong defences of the Dnieper's Eastern bank as even German reports confirm the belief that Marshal Budyenny's adroit strategy has safely withdrawn the bulk of his forces and their equipment from the German net in the Western Ukraine.

Making the sweeping assertion that the "entire region west of the Dnieper" is in their hands, the German High Command, in a special communiqué, admits that prisoners totalled only, 60,000, and claims only a relatively small amount of equipment—84 tanks and 530 guns—and "an abundance of other material." The same announcement says that an attack has been launched against the port of Odessa—left, it is believed, as a strongly-held "Tobruk" on the German flank—and "small isolated bridgeheads" on the Lower Dnieper still held by Red Army soldiers.

There is no further news of the Germans' Baltic drive, which brought them to Kingisepp—now evacuated by the Russians—and so within 75 miles of Leningrad to the south-west. The fall of Kingisepp means that the blitzkrieg in this sector has advanced not more than twenty miles in three weeks.

The Moscow communiqué this morning says that during yesterday Russian troops fought along the entire front, especially stubbornly in the Kingisepp, Novgorod, Gomel and Odessa directions. In the Black Sea Russian bombers sank two German transports and set another on fire.

The net effect of operations in recent days is, says the Press Association, that the Soviet High Command in the South has foiled the German attempt to engage them in decisive battle before they reached and crossed the Dnieper under the shelter of the heavy batteries mounted on the rising ground along the river's eastern bank.

Marshal Budyenny's losses may prove to be considerable, but there is good ground for belief that somewhere in the region of 400,000 men and their equipment have been withdrawn to the new defence line guarding the way to the industrial wealth of the Ukraine, and, while Kiev is apparently as strongly held as ever, various forces are left to co-operate in the guerrilla warfare which will inevitably harass the German rear.

RIVER OBSTACLE

There was no confirmation in London last night of earlier German claims that the Dnieper has been reached, although the speed of their thrust suggests that it will not be checked until it is confronted by the river. One report says that the Soviet's main strength is now massed along the east bank from Krementchug, 160 miles south-east of Kiev, to Zaporozhe, which means "beyond the rapids," and is about six miles below the huge Dnieprostroi dam.

Alexander Werth, Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow, says that here the Soviet Command faces a possible dilemma. Unless this mighty dam—built by the Russians at enormous cost and labour, and regarded as one of the Soviet's proudest engineering achievements—is made an impregnable fortress it may serve the Germans as a stepping-stone across the river. If the dam is blown up, the river might tend to get dangerously shallow. Whatever decision is taken, it is fully recognised that the Germans have a technique for overcoming river barriers, as they showed with the Seine at Rouen.

DANGER THREAT

If the Germans were to cross the Dnieper there would be no natural line of resistance until the Don was reached. Thus, it is pointed out in London, the defence of the Dnieper becomes of the greatest importance because of the valuable territory lying between the two rivers. Its loss would be a serious blow.

Future progress of the Germans will depend on what reserves the Soviet Command can dispose in order to defend the five or six bridgeheads between Kiev and the sea and at the same time maintain a watch all along the river, as well as deal with any bodies of troops which manage to cross it.

Moscow's communiqué yesterday again briefly reported that during the previous night "our troops continued to engage the enemy along the entire front." The German communiqué, referring only to operations in the Ukraine, disclosed further fighting in the regions of Kiev and Korosten, to the north-west. It claimed, too, that at Nikolaiev—where the Russians destroyed the port installations and dockyards before their withdrawal—a 35,000 ton Soviet battleship, a 10,000 ton cruiser, four destroyers, and two submarines, "all still in the stocks," fell into German hands. Luftwaffe attacks on Odessa harbour were said to have put out of action nine troopships and damaged three warships.

GERMAN CLAIMS

A German High Command spokesman claimed last night that the evacuation of the Soviet troops cut off in Odessa has been made impossible by the smashing of the Russian Black Sea transport fleet. He said that the Russians sent every available ship to the Black Sea coast to take off their forces west of the Dnieper. Dive-bombers attacked them in wave after wave. Eight transports, totalling at least 36,000 tons, had been destroyed, and 24 transports, tankers and merchant ships rendered unserviceable in the past five days, he said.

BATTLE AT SMOLENSK

German radio claimed that two Soviet Divisions were routed and 10,000 prisoners taken when German tanks pushed deep into the Russian lines and encircled large forces in a three-day battle south-east of Smolensk. Attempts by the Soviet troops to escape from encirclement were unsuccessful, the announcer said, and "pockets" of troops were destroyed. The claim added that 90 guns, 25 tanks, two armoured scouting cars and other arms were captured.

German radio also claimed that German bombers attacked a Soviet aerodrome on the eastern bank of the Dnieper on Monday, 40 Soviet machines being destroyed on the ground.

Swedish Press reports from Berlin state that German forces, after advancing along the shores of Lake Ilmen, have reached a point north of Novgorod, a town on the railway about 100 miles south of Leningrad. In Estonia the Germans are reported to have captured the eastern shale oil fields.

A Finnish communiqué stated last night that Soviet troops, cut off south-west of Sortavala—on the northern tip of Lake Ladoga—are resisting strongly, but the "area of encirclement" has been further reduced.

RAID ON BERLIN

Incendiary and high-explosive bombs were dropped on military and industrial objectives in Berlin on Monday night, says the Soviet News Agency. "Fires and explosions were seen, and all our 'planes returned to their bases," it was added.

"More than 1,500,000 German soldiers have been killed, wounded or taken prisoner in six weeks," said Moscow Radio last night. "More than 6,000 tanks have been destroyed, more than 8,000 guns destroyed or captured.

From four to six divisions of a Polish army in Russia can be raised quickly, according to investigations carried out in Moscow by the Polish Military Mission.

An Ankara message says that news that private cars will be mobilised in Bulgaria on September 1, in conjunction with recent changes in the Bulgarian High Command, has led to the growing belief that King Boris will send troops against Russia.

THE MOSCOW CONFERENCE

Moscow, Tuesday. — M. Lozovsky, the Soviet official spokesman, said to-day he could not yet state the date of the Three-Power Conference. He said he had no knowledge of a report that General Chiang Kai-shek would attend it.—Reuter.

COMMUNITY KITCHENS—X.

WHAT IS ON THE MENU?

The Essentials of Diet

BY AN "IRISH TIMES" SPECIAL COMMISSIONER.

"STEW, stew, stew . . . . I ain't complainin', mister, but you do get a bit sick o' stew," said a street singer, with whom I discussed the food he got at communal feeding centres.

Probably you have noticed in the course of these articles that stew forms the normal meal at the centres. The reason is soon found—stew is nourishing, filling, easy to prepare and cook, and, a most important thing, it is the most economic meal.

But can the community kitchens provide a little variety? The Rathmines Parish Kitchen manages it; what about the others? I am not decrying the value of stew, and I do know that the under-privileged members of the community do not always appreciate its value; but in this article I want to tell you something about diet, and that may provide some ideas for "ringing the changes" on available supplies. "Penny Dinner" centres, of course, are in a difficult position, their meals are sold on an uneconomic basis, but if they had just a little more money at their disposal I am certain the organisers would be only too glad to vary the menu.

THE VIRTUES OF STEW

When I discussed diet with Professor W. R. Fearon he quoted two English authorities (Orr and Lubock) who have devised a hypothetical dietary for war time and found that each person should have the following minimal daily ration.—

Calories, 2,100; proteins, 50 gm.; carbohydrates, 350 gm.; fats, 48 gm.; calcium, 0.66 gm.; iron, 15 mgm.; vitamin A, 3,500 units; vitamin B, 1,650 units; vitamin C, 1,700 units.

To you and me this means that a man needs: Milk, 0.6 pt.; vegetables, 6 oz.; potatoes, 14-18 oz.; oatmeal, 2 oz.; bread, 11.8 oz.; fats, 1.25 oz.; sugar, 2.25 oz. Now, we have the makings of this essential diet for everyone in the country—why should anyone starve? You will notice, of course, that the best way to get this ration to the people in a community kitchen is in the form of a stew, with a bread pudding and custard sauce to follow.

Let us have a little more about the vitamins which are so important. Professor Fearon again guides me. Vitamin A builds up resistance to disease: its chief source is in fish oils—now hard to get. But what of home sources? A single helping of carrots will provide the full daily ration of Vitamin A. Green-leaf vegetables also provide carotene, the essential factor, and are plentiful in this country. Boiled beef and carrots, plus some potatoes and cabbage, would make a welcome change from stew.

THOSE VITAMINS!

Now, about B 1—12 ozs. of wholemeal bread per day supplies the full need, but other sources available to community kitchens include potatoes, peas, beans, and (if the funds will run to it) egg yolk. Deficiency of this vitamin leads to loss of appetite and stomach trouble. Vitamin C comes from citrus fruits (out of the question at the present time), tomatoes, raspberries, black currants, raw green-leaf vegetables and potatoes. Fresh milk is a good source. This vitamin has the disadvantage of escaping from foodstuffs during boiling (an additional argument for cooking potatoes in their jackets, says Professor Fearon). The juice of the raw swede turnip is another source of supply. Now we have finished with the technical side of the menu, but if you can get a dietician on the kitchen committee I should do so.

Few kitchens have attempted roasts, but they can be done, although they are more expensive, and should only be attempted when there is "a little something in the bank." A field oven in the back-yard can be used if no other means are available; these ovens are simple to build and use.

Colcannon is quite a useful change, and if the funds will run to it, why not a bit of boiled fish one Friday. I suggest to people in the Dublin Fish market that fish which is surplus to market requirements should be sold cheaply to community kitchens long before it rots. The fishermen did not risk their lives that their catches should be wasted.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

To people with apple trees in the garden, I suggest that they should send a stone or two of fruit along to the nearest kitchen. You know the value of stewed fruit—the community kitchens would be only too glad to give the customers a change from bread and biscuit puddings or rice (which is getting both scarce and dear). You may say: "My stone of apples will not go far towards feeding a couple of hundred." No, but your stone and the stones from your neighbours will. The same applies to other fruit and vegetables (particularly carrots, leeks and onions); this is not something for one or two to do—it is our chance to help other people. But, you say, we have no community kitchen in our district. Then, sir, your district has little to be proud of, but I suggest you send your fruit or vegetables to the nearest kitchen—but, please don't send them to me!

Now, for a few hints. Cook green vegetables quickly in small quantities of salted water, and serve immediately they are cooked. Don't throw the "green water" away; remember, in France, they thicken it for soup. It can go into the stock-pot or be used for gravy. Steam potatoes in their jackets, and serve as soon as possible; they lose Vitamin C if cooked slowly or kept hot for a long time. Give the oatmeal ration in gravy (as thickening) or use it to replace some of the flour when making pastry. By the way, "duff" would be a popular change from the normal puddings; raisins may be hard to get, but the quantity required is small if a custard sauce (getting in the milk ration) is used. The use of fats in cooking will supply the ration of fats and help to give the "filling" factor which the customers seek.

NOURISHMENT

If you get anyone "cribbing" over the meals, like my street singer, who also complained that the stew was "a bit short on meat," try to get them to understand that, if they eat the right foods (which are provided in the kitchens) at their principal meal of the day, the other meals are of relatively less importance. At the present time the poor of Dublin live on the cheapest, and frequently most inappropriate, foods. A social worker told me of taking money to one such family: the woman of the house immediately went out and bought sausages and black pudding—quite nice; but there is more nourishment in a couple of pounds of stewing beef!

Professor E. J. Sheehy is a man who has been studying this problem—he is working with the Catholic Social Service Conference—and he says that the community kitchens must aim at giving the needy foods of a better quality than they normally consume, including, where possible, a good supply of milk and dairy products. With Miss Kathleen O'Sullivan (the head of Dublin's new College of Domestic Science) he is preparing a pamphlet on the subject, and this should be of considerable assistance to workers in the kitchens. There is also a great deal of useful information on diets and menus in the booklet which I recommended yesterday—"Community Feeding in War Time."

People who run community kitchens may think this article suggestive of the "hurler on the ditch." That is hardly true—the material has been gathered from many sources, and is intended to help them and anybody else who is prepared to tackle this outstanding problem of modern Dublin—and other cities—seriously.

CLARE BOARD'S ORDER

BRISK EXCHANGES AT INQUIRY

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
ENNIS, Tuesday.

Yesterday's proceedings at the resumed inquiry into the affairs of Clare Board of Health were marked by brisk exchanges between Mr. J. P. Geraghty, inspector, and Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., who was appearing on behalf of the Board. With Mr. Geraghty conducting the inquiry is Mr. W. J. S. Bloomer, assistant chief engineering adviser of the Department.

Cottage rent collectors gave evidence of their efforts to collect about £5,000 due in arrears. Notices to quit were served and evictions carried out. The Board had given every co-operation. Unemployment was one of the chief reasons for the non-payment of rent. In addition, some cottages were in a bad state of repair and the tenants refused to pay rent.

Collector D. Keane said that he had 28 cottages in his district and they were in a scandalous condition. In one case a public collection had been made to enable a family to pay their arrears of rent.

WHY ORDER WAS MADE

Referring to an order made by the Board that the rent collectors call once a month on tenants for the rent, Mr. Geraghty said as far as he could judge they had not called monthly.

Mr. J. Quinn, secretary to the Board recalled, said that the reason the order had been made was to frighten the collectors if they were not calling on the tenants.

Mr. Lavery said that each of the collectors had stated in evidence that he was calling.

Mr. Geraghty quoted the arrears figures, and Mr. Lavery said that the inspector was not entitled to draw from the figures the inference that the collectors were not calling. Since the Board took office in 1926 they had collected pound for pound of practically all the accruing rent.

Mr. Geraghty said he was not particularly impressed, because when he examined the rentals of Boards of Health in other counties he found that the arrears had tumbled down considerably.

When Mr. J. Fahy, Chairman of the Board, was being examined, he was asked by Mr. Geraghty had he heard the evidence of the Secretary that the order directing the rent collectors to call once a month had been in the nature of a bluff, as no machinery had been devised to ensure that the order would be carried out.

Mr. Lavery protested against construing the Secretary's evidence in such a manner.

Mr. Fahy said the Board had not tried to bluff anybody, and had not made the order for bluff.

After further exchanges, Mr. Lavery said he regarded the discussion as childish, to which Mr. Geraghty replied that, judging by some of the questions put by Mr. Lavery, he could well see why he regarded it as childish.

"Possibly, after this exchange of courtesies," said Mr. Lavery, "the work can go on."

Mr. M. McMahon, a member of the Board, said that great pressure had been exercised on the rent collectors to get in the rents. They generally found that from the Secretary down, the orders of the Board were given proper attention.

COLLISION VICTIMS PROGRESSING

On inquiry at Steevens' Hospital yesterday it was learned that the people injured in the collision between a 'bus and a motor car near Red Cow Inn, Clondalkin, on Monday, were making progress in all cases. Yesterday the Lord Mayor, Alderman P. S. Doyle, T.D., visited the injured in the hospital.

The Rev. M. Dowling, S.J., Sacred Heart College, The Crescent, Limerick, who was injured in the collision, has not a depressed fracture of the skull, as the Irish Times had been informed. He suffered other injuries, but his condition is satisfactory, and gives no cause for alarm.

CATTLE DISEASE OUTBREAK

One case of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed yesterday—at Ballinabranagh, Leighlinbridge, County Carlow.

TUBERCULOSIS IN DUBLIN

MEDICAL OFFICER'S REPORT

During 1940, 138 people died from pulmonary tuberculosis in County Dublin—four more than in 1939—and 43 died from other forms of tuberculosis, compared with 31 during the previous year. This increase is reflected all over Ireland, and the rates—considerably higher than those of Great Britain—called for a study of the factors contributing to the present incidence of the disease.

This was stated by Dr. J. A. Harbison, M.O.H. for County Dublin, in his annual report to the Dublin Board of Health yesterday.

More than half of the cases were brought under observation for the first time only when the disease had been well established, despite the facilities for diagnosis at present available, he reports.

HOME TREATMENT

Dr. Harbison endorses the views of the Royal Irish Academy of Medicine, who called for a central tuberculosis dispensary for differential diagnoses and early treatment, a well-equipped sanatorium, and efficient after-care in the patient's home. The Academy envisage four such centres in the general scheme of hospital development in Dublin. Adequate institutional provision was all the more urgent, as local or central authorities would probably be unable to hasten housing provisions in the near future, and that consequently there would be no prospect of proper isolation for domiciliary cases who were particularly advanced. At the present time both of Dublin's Sanatoria had waiting lists, and until sufficient acceptable accommodation was available for all cases in whom the disease has been well established fresh groups of the disease must arise.

The report announces that during 1940 1,634 people died in the County Dublin area—130 more than in 1939. There were 69 deaths from infectious diseases, a decrease of 12 on the previous year. Deaths from diphtheria numbered eight, four less than in 1939 and 14 less than in 1938.

CHILD DEATHS

Infant mortality in County Dublin was considerably higher than in other counties because County Dublin consists of small urban units.

There were 133 cases of diphtheria, 149 cases of scarlet fever, one case of typhoid and two of paratyphoid during the year.

Dealing with the problem of providing school children with meals, the Medical Officer of Health says that altered conditions have made it difficult for parents to obtain some essential foods, and this was a problem for every parish.

Mr. John O'Flynn, chief veterinary officer, also presented his report, which dealt with the national free milk scheme. There had been a considerable reduction in the quantity of highest grade milk distributed during the year, he said. This was because the Government would not sanction a price considered economic by the producers. No pasteurised milk was distributed under the scheme.

Drove Defective Lorry—Timothy Murphy, St. Patrick's Quay, Bandon, at Ballymantle yesterday was fined 60s. for the dangerous driving of a lorry, and 40s. for using a defective vehicle. The State Solicitor (Mr. Casey) said the prosecutions arose out of an accident in which a man was killed, and Murphy was charged with manslaughter and acquitted.

FRENCH OFFICERS RELEASED

Fifteen French officers detained in Palestine, pending the return of British officers captured and sent out of Syria, have now been released. They returned to Syria yesterday, says Reuter's Jerusalem Correspondent, to rejoin the French forces still awaiting repatriation. This action follows the recent return from France of a party of captured British and Indian officers and other ranks. General Dentz and his more senior colleagues will continue to be held until all the missing British prisoners of war are handed over in accordance with the terms of the armistice.

Sir Paul Latham, Conservative M.P. for Scarborough and Whitby, who, it was announced in the House of Commons last month, had been placed under arrest and is to be tried by court-martial for alleged offences against military law, has been appointed steward and bailiff of the Manor of Northstead, state the London Gazette last night.

Towards the Dnieper

In the extreme south and extreme north the German armies can lay fair claim to successes. This week the German High Command has claimed, and Moscow has admitted, the capture of two industrial towns of great importance—Krivoi-rog, capital of a valuable mining district in the "elbow" of the Dnieper, and Nikolaiev, the grain port and naval dockyard at the mouth of the River Bug. These are no light losses. The Krivoi-rog region, indeed, is anything but the only mining centre in Russia—for that matter, there are equally valuable deposits elsewhere in the Ukraine—but its capture is bound to add substantially to Germany's resources; and she has shown even greater exultation over the fall of Nikolaiev. As matters stand now, the Germans profess to have reached the Dnieper at, at least, one point, and to have destroyed any hope of further Russian resistance on the river's western side. The news has not been confirmed in London, or admitted by Moscow; but there is little reason to doubt that, if the Germans have not reached the river already, they will reach it at any moment. Marshal Budyenny evidently has foreseen that further resistance in that area would be doomed to failure, and has withdrawn his forces, with great skill and celerity, to new and stronger positions across the river. He is faced now with the most formidable task of his career. There are not many bridgeheads on the Lower Dnieper, but such as there are must be defended to the last man. If the Germans prove too strong for him, or if any of the bridges is weakened either by treason or remissness—as happened at the Meuse fourteen months ago—Russia will find herself in serious peril; but her soldiers are fighting with almost incredible spirit, and the passage of the Dnieper certainly will cost Herr Hitler a heavy toll of men—if he contrives to pass it at all. The greater part of Marshal Budyenny's armies seems to have been evacuated across the river in safety, and he has summoned fresh forces from Kharkov and the Crimea. Germany is confronted with a vastly more difficult problem than the crossing of the French rivers.

Further northwards, operations in the neighbourhood of Kiev remain at a standstill. A fortnight ago the Germans, in their attempt to encircle the city, had reached two towns, Korosten and Byelaya-Tserkov, to the north-east and south-west respectively. There is no evidence that they have made any further progress, and it may be that they have determined to halt and watch what happens in the Dnieper basin. In like manner, there is no news of the thrust for Moscow, via Smolensk, or of that in the neighbourhood of Kholm; but the advance towards Leningrad appears to be meeting with better fortune. Yesterday morning the Russians announced that they had evacuated Kingisepp, a small town just inside the boundaries of the U.S.S.R. proper, but only 75 miles from Leningrad. Even so, Herr Hitler's troops must face ferocious resistance in this sector, and there is no reason to suppose that their advance beyond Kingisepp will be any more rapid than their approach to it has been. The real danger to Russia would appear to lie in the south, in the bend of the Dnieper. Elsewhere the German advance—if the term may be used—is harassed by guerrilla warfare behind the lines, on a scale hitherto unknown, but it is doubtful if such operations will be possible in the Western Ukraine. The decisive battle for Russia is due to be fought any day now. Herr Hitler must have concluded it within the next two months or the odds are that he will not conclude it at all.

Air War

Recent speeches by British Ministers make it clear that greater value than before is being placed upon the bombing aeroplane as a means to ultimate victory. For some months now a day and night air offensive against Western Germany and occupied France has been in progress, and the forces employed have so increased that the use of 300 bombers in a single raid is by no means unusual. Up to 1939 the Royal Air Force was designed primarily as a defensive arm, so that greater attention was paid to fighter squadrons that would attempt to repel raiders than to units equipped for a policy of attack. This was a complete reversal of the Royal Flying Corps and Independent Air Force tactics in the last war, when the initiative in offensive operations was maintained even in the face of German machines that were not only more numerous, but also technically superior. Recently, however, the fighter also is being used offensively, as well as in a protective capacity for bombers engaged in daylight raids. Naturally, the new policy has been accompanied by an increase in British air losses. Small forces operating at night are capable of doing a certain amount of damage without serious loss, but, when great numbers of 'planes engage in a daylight raid, a certain proportion of casualties must be expected. The sponsors of the new British air policy, no doubt, have reckoned the cost as well as the possible gains. At present the principal object may be to interfere with Germany's offensive against Russia, and only the chiefs of the German military machine can pronounce on the effectiveness of the raids. Britain herself has had experience of the damage that can be done to production by concentrated raids upon industrial centres, and a remedy has been sought—perhaps, has been found—in the wide dispersal of armament factories in small units. In that procedure Britain was following what had been done in Germany some years before.

It may be, of course, that the object of the British air policy is to break the spirit of the German people by causing general desolation in areas where factories and workshops are the bases of civic economy and human existence. That policy also has been tried by the Luftwaffe, and has been a conspicuous failure. Is it more likely to be a success against Germany? That question, and many like it, can only be answered by happenings in the future. In the meantime, a great accumulation of data is being provided at enormous expense for those who would speculate upon different aspects of air strategy in the future. For twenty years military writers had been trying to make up their minds about the possibilities of bombing achieving anything worth while. They saw it succeed against the Abyssinians, who were, of course, a primitive people without any protection against the type of air offensive to which they were subjected. They saw it fail in Spain and in China. In Poland, however, they saw it accomplish all that was desired of it by wiping out the Polish Air Force and the Polish sources of armament production. The use of the dive-bomber as an ancillary of the mechanised military unit in Northern France was a different proposition from the use of the bomber per se. Daylight raids against Southern England last September brought consolation to those who had championed the fighter against the bomber, but night raids were something that the desk-chair strategists had not debated with either knowledge or prescience. Unfortunately, they will know all about it by the time this war ends.

Corruption from California

Many of the American films that reach these shores are poor in quality, and a large proportion of them have a harmful effect on the children—not to mention the adults; or so it is said! Nobody seems to worry very much. Occasionally the Irish Film Society sponsors a lecture, or the exhibition of a "classical" film, in an attempt to educate the people "up" to the appreciation of good films; but, for the most part, they are content to spend their evenings in the cinemas, happily oblivious of the poor quality of the programmes. In Japan, according to a Reuter report, things are very different; the Government has decided that certain types of film are unsuitable for the consumption of the Japanese race, and henceforward such films will be prohibited. From now onwards the American gangster film—which is claimed to be one cause of the increase in juvenile crime in recent years—is forbidden, and, although some of the young Japanese "bloods" may feel a trifle disgruntled about it, it will be interesting to see if the order has a beneficial effect on the country as a whole. Ultra-romantic films also have been banned, as well as films depicting "wasteful extravagance"—which embargo may be designed to prevent the growth of envy in hearts that have been chilled by the economies entailed in four years of expensive war. Yet one hardly can expect that the American film directors will change their habits as a result of Japan's action. Probably, even if every other country in the world should follow Japan's example in this matter, there still would be sufficiently large audiences in America to justify the production of gangster, ultra-romantic and high society films.

LORD HALIFAX TO VISIT LONDON

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador in Washington, may fly to London before long for a series of conversations with the Prime Minister, the Foreign Secretary, and members of the War Cabinet, writes the Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent. He has been in the United States for more than a year, and arrangements were made some time ago for him to return to London during this month.

In addition to reporting on various aspects of Anglo-American relations, Lord Halifax will give the Cabinet details of his recent coast-to-coast tour of the United States. He is expected to return to his post in Washington towards the end of September.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SON IN LONDON

Captain Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President of the United States of America, has arrived in Britain, and will remain for a few days on military business. Pictures of the meeting of the President and Mr. Churchill showed Captain Roosevelt holding his father's left arm.

The 22 victims of last Thursday's trans-Atlantic 'plane crash—including Mr. Arthur B. Purvis, Chairman of the British Supply Council in North America—were buried yesterday in a communal grave in a cemetery near the aerodrome from which the 'plane took off last Thursday. Rear-Admiral Sir Arthur Bromley represented the British Prime Minister and the Dominions Secretary.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

New Zealand's Premier

The rapid sharpening of the crisis in the Far East will prevent New Zealand's Labour Prime Minister, Mr. Peter Fraser, from paying a visit to Ireland and getting a cordial welcome in Dublin.

Already preliminary arrangements for Mr. Fraser's reception had been made here, and the New Zealand Premier was looking forward to his visit with as lively an interest as were his Dublin hosts to be. But Japan's significant moves last week led to the decision that he should return home without delay, and reluctantly he has had to cancel his visit. On Sunday, however, it was officially announced in New Zealand that Mr. Fraser would remain for a few days longer in England to confer with the Cabinet there, but that will not permit time to let him come here.

I cannot but think that that is a great pity; for Mr Fraser's visit might have been worth while for Irish people both in Dublin and Belfast. He is of Scottish stock, and should have more understanding of our Northern problem than most Dominion statesmen. A greater proportion of the Irish who helped to build up New Zealand are of North of Ireland origin than can be said to be the case in Canada or Australia.

In Belfast, as in Dublin, there must be many people who would have liked to hear at first hand from Mr. Fraser how the New Zealand Labour Government has managed to finance its very advanced social system and virtually eliminated unemployment.

Station Steps

Why are most of our city railway stations situated on a height? Why must the weary traveller be compelled to mount the endless flights of stone steps before he eventually reaches the platform? Of course, there must be a reason, although, if I may paraphrase, stone steps do not a station make. The fortunate traveller who goes by Kingsbridge is relieved of the drudgery.

It is no joke, in these train-restricted times, to have to rush up these heartless steps to catch the "tea-time express." In more leisurely days one could mount gently and with comfort, secure in the knowledge that a comfortable seat waited.

Now one is jostled, one's life is imperilled by flying bodies, and there is no security. Seats are for the strong and able; others must stand—if, indeed, there is standing room available.

It is a great hardship, steps and all.

Robert Buchanan and Ireland

Robert Buchanan, poet, novelist, dramatist, the anniversary of whose birth occurred this week, came to live in Ireland in 1874, after a stay at Malvern, in the hope of repairing his damaged health.

He took a furnished cottage in one of the wildest parts of Connemara—Rossport Lodge—which was forty miles from a railway station and ten miles from a post office, and where the day's post did not arrive until 9 p.m.

It was exactly what he wanted—a comfortable house, good shooting and fishing, and the use of a horse and car—all for £50 a year. While there he made his first bid as a novelist with "A Child of Nature," and he continued to do excellent literary work.

Later he found the solitude too irksome, and his work suffered. "The truth is," he wrote, "I have sucked the marrow of Connemara as regards poetical and literary inspiration," and he returned to London.

His career was one of many vicissitudes. His early days in London were marked by poverty, his middle life was one of comparative affluence, but disappointments marred his closing days, and he had to part with all his copyrights. Paralysis followed, and he died in straitened circumstances at Streatham in 1901.

Duke of the Ukraine

More than one of the great "if's of history" are suggested by the terrific battle raging between Russians and Germans for the Ukraine and its capital, Kiev.

To me it has been surprising to find that one of the most famous of English generals, if he had so chosen, could have been Duke of the Ukraine. That was two and a half centuries ago, and the English general was none less than the renowned Duke of Marlborough, whose skilful and energetic military leadership was displayed against Irish armies in this country as well as in England and on the Continent.

Before that period the Ukraine, or Kiev, as the region was more generally known, had enjoyed independent existence as a State, rivalling, indeed, its neighbour, Muscovy, which was to emerge from the struggle in the shape and power of Great Russia.

An Honour Declined

But at the height of Marlborough's European renown, the first Empress Catherine, the Lithuanian peasant's daughter, who became wife of Peter the Great, had begun the intense Russification of the Ukraine, and, wishing to attach the great Englishman to her side, offered him the Dukedom of the Ukraine. Marlborough's ambition was notorious, and no less was his inconstancy in allegiance to causes and monarchs, but for some reason he declined the honour.

His father, of course, was a Sir Winston Churchill, and the present British Prime Minister inherits his brilliancy as well as his blood.

To-day, when Europe's fate may be hanging in the balance in the Ukraine, I wonder whether Mr. Churchill and M. Stalin ever think of what might have happened if Marlborough had gone to the Ukrainian capital.

DUBLIN PASSENGER TRANSPORT

Mr. Leslie Luke, Public Relations Officer, Dublin United Transport Company, interviewed by Mr. Roy Irving in last night's "Hullabaloo" programme at the Theatre Royal, sketched the history of the company and of passenger transport generally, in the city and suburbs, since the early days, and gave instances of inventions of the Dublin company that had been adopted all over the world, showing that the company had been pioneers in their own line. He also stated the reasons why the company had not re-introduced trams where they had been taken off, but stated that a couple of tram routes were being kept in working order in case of need. Mr. Luke also introduced a retired tram conductor, who had had 48 years' service with the company, and who contrasted conditions to-day with those obtaining when he joined the company.

LEGACY TO RESTORE CATHEDRAL

The residue of a fortune of over £180,000 has been bequeathed for the repair and upkeep of St. George's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Southwark, London, which was destroyed by fire in a raid early this year.

The donor was Miss Agnes Esther Foley, of Fernwood avenue, Streatham, London, and Wolding, East Grinstead, Sussex, daughter of the late Patrick James Foley, founder of the Pearl Assurance Co., Ltd. From her estate of £188,028 she left £15,000 to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Southwark for charity, and made other charitable bequests.

A PROBLEM FOR NEWLY-WEDS

NO COOKERS AVAILABLE

The prospect of cooking her first meal over an "emergency coal" fire—provided, of course, there is even any emergency coal—and continuing to do so until the war is over is facing the bride-to-be. Yesterday an Irish Times reporter learned that no new gas cookers would be issued to new consumers. This will mean that anyone who previously did not own a cooker—a person, for instance, who lived in "digs"—will have to do without any means of cooking except in a range or over an open fire; for the shortage of electric stoves is just as acute.

An official of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers Gas Company admitted that this would cause hardship, but said that the rule would be strictly adhered to.

"It has been made principally because we have no cookers to spare, but, in addition, it will help us to cut down on the use of gas," he added.

M.P.'S REFUSAL TO RESIGN HIS SEAT

Captain G. H. M. Ramsay, Conservative M.P. for Peebles, who has been detained since May, 1940, under the British Defence Regulations, has refused to resign his seat in Parliament. The news was announced after a meeting of the Peebles and South Midlothian Unionist Association in Edinburgh yesterday. The Association had called upon him to resign.

The meeting adopted Mr. J. L. Clyde, K.C., as prospective candidate to support the National Government.

Golf

Jubilee Year of G.U.I.

(BY OUR GOLF CORRESPONDENT.)

In more peaceful times this would have been a notable year in the records of Irish golf. We would have celebrated the jubilee year of the Golfing Union of Ireland; as a matter of fact, it had been the intention to hold some sort of suitable celebration, but the war, and the closing down of golf in Northern Ireland, necessitated a change of plan, and it looks as if the year will run out without the least recognition being given officially to the fiftieth birthday of that body, under whose wise guidance the game has developed to such a remarkable extent. It would, however, be a pity if something were not done to mark, in an official manner, the jubilee of the foundation of the Union.

The Royal Blackheath Club in Kent was founded three hundred and thirty-three years ago, forty-six years before the Royal and Ancient Club St. Andrews; but, although the Golfing Union of Ireland did not come into existence until 1891, with Lord Ranfurly as its first President, it has the enviable distinction of being the first Union to be formed in any country. From very small beginnings, the Union has expanded far beyond the wildest dreams of its founders, until to-day there is scarcely a town in the country that has not its golf club. The number of clubs in Ireland is two hundred and twelve—71 in Ulster, 70 in Leinster, 42 in Munster and 29 in Connaught—and the prospects of an increase are not by any manner of means remote. A few years ago it was estimated that more than 25,000 men members of clubs were playing golf, and to that has to be added the ladies, who form a big golfing unit in themselves. Golfers embrace almost every section of the citizens—the professions, trade and commerce, the Army, Garda, and even the Maritime Inscription, as the result of the recent appointment to an important position in that branch of the defence forces of the President of the Golfing Union of Ireland, Mr. George Crosbie.

The total amount of money that circulates through the agency of golf in Ireland must be extraordinary, judged by the balance sheets of the clubs. Except in the case of the "Sport of Kings," there is probably no sport in the country that is responsible for the circulation of so much money, or that gives so much constant employment. All in, anyone who plays golf regularly must spend at least £20 per annum on his or her recreation, so that it is easy to arrive at an approximate estimate of the total.

Therefore, I suggest to the Central Council of the Golfing Union of Ireland—I have already thrown out the suggestion elsewhere—that this year should not be allowed to run its course without an effort being made to inaugurate some form of competition that in future years would mark the occasion of the Union's jubilee, and that would remind coming generations of golfers of what the Union means for the game, what it has done, and continues to do, for them in the way of providing tens of thousands of men and women with healthful recreation, and the means of lessening their doctors' bills.

Professionals at Rosses Point

The Irish Professional Championship will be played for to-day and to-morrow at Rosses Point, Sligo, over seventy-two holes, commencing each day at 10 o'clock and the afternoon round starting at 2 o'clock.

The holder is Fred Daly, of the City of Derry Club, who last year at Cork, when one of the last to finish, beat Harry Bradshaw by a stroke. He will defend his title, and the probability now is that he and the Kilcroney man will again be concerned in the finish, as this year they have been the outstanding players in the competitions in their respective areas.

It is a representative entry, with half a dozen from the Ulster Branch, and, as most of the competitors arrived on Saturday evening, they should have made themselves familiar with the course.

NEWSPAPERMEN AT HOWTH

There was a representative gathering of the members of the Dublin Newspapers' Society at Howth, where the prize presented by the captain, Mr. J. C. Dempsey, acting manager of the Irish Press, was played for over 18 holes. In conjunction with the event, competitions were held for the members of the club, of which the visitors were the guests, members partnering the Pressmen, and a most enjoyable outing was the result. The captain's prize was won by J. Redmond (St. Anne's), who, off 21, returned the excellent score of 66. The best score of a member of the club was done by J. A. Kelly; playing off 3, he won with 66. Final Should Be a Battle of Giants

(BY PAT'O.)

Two decisive victories by Kerry and Galway in the semi-finals bring the Atlantic seaboard counties of the South and West together in the All-Ireland football final for the second successive year. Had transport and times been normal, I have no doubt that the record attendance of 70,000 (1938) between these fine sides would be surpassed. Their wins were most impressive, and everything points to a battle of giants at Croke Park on September 7th.

The Perfect Machine

Kerry were back to their best form at Stack Park, Tralee, where they submerged Dublin. In long championship experience I have never seen such a change in a week. Dublin were quite as fit and eager as at Croke Park, but they met a dynamic side, newly charged. From the first throw-in of the ball at Tralee, Kerry were on top; playing before a home crowd on a pitch where every blade of grass and every tree was familiar, and with that 15th championship at the back of their minds, these green and gold men allowed nothing to bar the way. They played inspired football. Even the weaker links of the chain seemed specially welded for the occasion. Not a man erred, and they were ever moving and massing like overwhelming waves from the Atlantic. From O'Keeffe out they were the ideal and harmonised blend of mind and muscle, of brain and brawn. The veteran goalkeeper, in his eleventh inter-county year, never played better; his goal had miraculous escapes more than once, when Dublin's skilful attack made their occasional raids. Kerry's full-back line was staunch as Mount Brandon—Keohane, Myers and Healy soared above their opponents and cleared at unusual length, whilst the Walsh pair, Casey and Dillon, were always cool masters of the situation. Ed. Walsh, at right half, has developed into a glorious footballer.

Yet it was at midfield that Kerry developed their winning theme. Pat Kennedy and Sean Brosnan never played a more brilliant partnership. Kennedy's drives from breakaway to final whistle carried power and direction. Kerry forwards were a transformed group, and against a sturdy lot of Dublin defenders they took the initiative. Paddy Bawn Brosnan swung a score of left-legged balls to the mark with smooth consistency; O'Connor and John Walsh made a perfect and thrustful forty yards line, and O'Sullivan, Kelly and O'Gorman were always dangerous. All round, Kerry played glamorous football, reminiscent of their very best days. They will be favourites in the final.

Galway played devastating football at Croke Park, where skilful point-kicking above the heads of Cavan's nonplussed and changing backs took them on a flood-tide to victory. There was unexpected weaknesses in the Ulster defences, and swopping of horses crossing a stream brought disaster. Cavan flashed upfield in skilful movements more than once, but Galway backs were masters of the occasion, and they won very easily, indeed.

A Hint

And so the road is open for another Kerry-Galway final. Both these fine sides played very clean football last week-end, and I feel confident that good refereeing will bring us a wholesome final. Last year's final between these counties was spoiled by frequent fouls—not of a criminal, but sufficiently grave character to destroy the continuity of the game. I think the Central Council should make a special appeal to players to discard even minor infringements. These are two grand teams, and the prospects of a grand football final are bright.

The Munster hurling ties are listed for Cork. Tipperary meet the Leemen on August 31st, and the winners play Limerick at the same venue a fortnight later.

WATER POLO

In the first round of the Leinster Senior Cup, at Blackrock Baths last night, Sandycove beat Dublin by 3 goals to 1. P. O'Byrne gave Dublin the lead, but P. Kenny equalised, and afterwards scored twice for Sandycove.

In the Leinster Intermediate Cup first round, Army beat Sandycove 2nd 6.0. J. Coffey, J. Bowman (2), D. O'Sullivan (2), and H. O'Neill scored.

STOCK EXCHANGE FEATURES

WHY BRITISH RAILS ARE RISING

From Our London Financial Correspondent.

The week on the London Stock Exchange has started with firmness in most sections, although, with few exceptions, there has been no considerable expansion of business.

The chief influence at present is the action of the Treasury in requisitioning further Canadian sterling securities held by residents in the United Kingdom. The total nominal amount outstanding of the stocks now called up is about £35,500,000, and, although payment for these will not begin until 6th October, prices of numerous securities into which holders might decide to exchange have been marked up.

Of outstanding interest is the revival in Home Rails. There were several sharp rises in the Ordinary and junior Pref. stocks on Monday, and yesterday the improvement extended to practically all the active issues. It is stated in the market that buying by some holders of requisitioned Canadian stocks is partly responsible for the increased strength and activity of this group, as on the basis of dividends paid for 1940, which are expected to be maintained for 1941, the yields are certainly satisfactory. Hopes of an early announcement regarding the agreement with the Government has helped the rise.

EQUITIES BOUGHT

Selective buying of equities in order to obtain higher yields has led to higher prices of numerous Brewery, Shipping, Electric Supply and various other popular issues, such as British Portland Cement, Leyland Motors and London Brick. Cotton Textiles received a fillip from the Bradford Dyers announcement.

British Funds have risen only slightly so far this week, because of the diversion of interest to other stocks, and also because the big financial institutions are taking little interest in the market at present.

Expectations that Bradford Dyers Association, which controls numerous firms engaged in the piece dyeing industry, would continue to benefit from the revival in the textile trade have been justified. The directors recommend paying arrears of dividend on the 5 p.c. Pref. stock for the five years up to the end of 1937, absorbing £318,655, although this means a reduction in the balance carried forward from £50,143 to £674. Following the above announcement there was a sharp rise in the price of the Pref to 16/-, and the Prefs. of Calico Printers, Bleachers and Fine Spinners also improved.

There was also speculative buying of Textile equities, on which no dividend has been paid for a long time. Bradford Dyers Ord., the last payment on which was 10d. per £1 unit for 1930, rising to 6/9. The price of Bradford Dyers Pref. includes 5/- gross for the dividends now recommended, as well as 3½ years' arrears, which, it may be assumed, will be met out of the current year's earnings

COMPANY RESULTS

The directors of Ranks, Ltd., announce that a further dividend of 7 p.c. will be paid on 22nd September next in respect of the year ended 29th June, 1940. With the interim dividends already distributed, this will raise the total for that year to 15 per cent. on the Ordinary capital. For 1938-39 the total was 18 per cent., 3 per cent. of which was a cash bonus.

In March last an interim of 8 per cent. in respect of the twelve months to 28th June, 1941, was declared, and, presumably, when further progress in preparing the accounts makes it possible, a further payment in respect of the past year will be recommended.

A preliminary statement shows that earnings of Wellman Smith Owen Engineering Corporation for the year to 31st March last were maintained at a satisfactory level. The net profit, after providing £41,800 for taxation, was £35,219, which compares with £39,793 for 1939-40, for which period tax provision absorbed £40,000. With a final dividend of 5 per cent. and a cash bonus of 2½ per cent., the year's distribution is 12½ per cent. for the third consecutive year. The £1 shares are quoted at 22/6.

RUBBER QUOTA SURPRISE

The rubber export quota for the last quarter of 1941 was fixed at 120 per cent. at a meeting of the International Rubber Regulation Committee yesterday. The quota for the present quarter is 100 per cent.

The decision to increase the quota by 20 per cent. caused some surprise in rubber circles since production is already virtually at capacity and many estates are unable to fulfil their permissible exports.

NEW £10,000 COMPANIES

Three new private companies, each with a nominal capital of £10,000, have been registered. They are John Sisk and Son (Builders), Ltd.; Kevin McDonnell, Ltd. (importers and exporters of all classes of goods), and W. J. Shields and Co., Ltd., which is to carry on business as wholesale warehousemen.

LONDON GOOD

TEXTILES AND RAILS JUMP

The London Stock Markets generally displayed increased cheerfulness yesterday, the feature being a further sharp all-round advance in British Rail issues in response to active buying on hopes of an early official statement on the new agreement. Rises in junior and prior charge stocks ranged up to 3½.

Activity in other directions remained on a small scale, but continued demand for selected Kaffirs gave a little colour to Mines, and among Industrials some of the Breweries established fresh gains, whilst Textiles came into prominence on the good Bradford Dyers dividend and net profits, which are the best since 1929.

Turnover in Gilt-edged failed to show any expansion, and, apart from quoting slightly higher levels for Old Consols, Local Loans and Old War Loan, jobbers were satisfied to leave prices unchanged throughout the day.

The brightest Industrial group was that for Textiles, where a rise of 1/10½ to 15/7½ in Bradford Dyers Pref. was the signal for an upswing in surrounding issues. Coats, Calico Printers Ord., Bleachers, Fine Cotton Spinners Ord. and Pref. and Lancashire Cotton issues all moved to higher levels.

Furness Withy proved notably firm at 23/1½ following the increase in the dividend. Leaders such as Dunlops, Vickers, Courtaulds, Chemicals and "Emmies" were inanimate, whilst Cable and Wireless Ord. dropped a point to 62.

The tendency in a subdued Oil market was to slightly lower levels, and there was occasional profit-taking in Mines.

DYERS' DIVIDENDS

Bradford Dyers' Association recommends the payment of five years' dividend arrears, amounting to £318,655, on the 5 p.c. Cumulative Preference stocks. This brings payments up to December, 1937.

Profits, after providing £160,336, compared with £142,625, for depreciation, amounted to £373,857 against £233,556. Debenture interest absorbs £44,671, and £60,000 against nil is set aside for war damage contributions.

The credit balance carried forward is £676, against £50,143 brought in.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS

DUBLIN METROPOLITAN CATTLE

Cattle in smaller supply than previous day, total arrivals being 1,400 head. In point of quality the gathering largely consisted of plain and useful classes, but a comparatively small number could be classed as of A 1 merit. Whether for this or other reasons, the money position was inclined to weaken. There was a fair attendance of buyers in shipping interests, and sales opened satisfactory for prime heavy-weight bullocks, with the real choice article showing a firmer tendency. Nice meated heifers sold fairly well inside previous values. After these a more cautious attitude was manifest, and a clearance more difficult to effect, at: Prime bullocks 54/- to 56/, extra 57/- and 58/-, good secondary sorts 52/- to 53/-, rougher 48/- to 51/-, best heifers 52/- to 53/-, extra 54/-, others 41/- to 51/- per live cwt.

Just 500 head of sheep and lambs arrived for sale, and experienced a most disappointing demand; in fact, few buyers appeared to want anything, and business closed with many pens unsold, at: Wether mutton 9d. to 10d. per lb., and lambs 26/- to 40/-, extra up to 48/- per head.

WALL STREET HESITANT

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

The Stock Market was hesitant to-day. Outside following made no appearance, and the timidity was blamed partially on the conflicting Russian front bulletins and the increasing tension in the Far East.

Dealings were sluggish and narrowly irregular in the turnover of 390,000 shares, which comprised 638 issues, of which 228 were higher, 221 were lower, and 189 remained unchanged.—(Reuter.)

LONDON MONEY MARKET

Market borrowers found less difficulty in satisfying requirements at the usual rates, and towards the close of the session small amounts of money again became available at ¾ per cent.

There was no further change in the Shanghai dollar after Monday's excitement.

Silver prices were unchanged at 23 7/16d. per ounce.

WASTE PAPER

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

Sir,—Now that the above appeal has been launched I would suggest that the Government itself can set the ball rolling by applying it to all offices worked in by Gardai, military and Civil Servants, thus ensuring that waste paper in plenty can be collected for re-pulping, and, as a result, help in reducing considerably unemployment in the printing and allied trades.—Yours, etc.,

FREDERICK J. LANE.
